Why get up?

Corrupt politicians, boring lectures at university, empty plastic bottles on the riverside, people who care just about themselves – are you familiar with these problems? We are convinced that everybody can change something in his/her society, because we experienced it ourselves.

During the seminar...

... you are going to discuss the problems of your societies with other young people from the Balkans. Boring?! We use creative, sometimes crazy, certainly practical methods. You will learn the basics of project management and intercultural communication and develop your own small project. Depending on further funding of our program, you will receive a scholarship to implement your own project.

The seminar is run by four young, international and experienced trainers.
